

Abstract

5 The present invention relates to laser-markable plastics of which a feature is that a plastic which is difficult to laser-treat comprises as absorber material an intrinsically laser-markable polymer in the form of micromilled particles having a particle size of 0.1 - 100 μm .